

CIRCLES

I'm knocking on your door
My heart is in my hands
I'm hoping for another chance
To show you I'm your man
Some say I'm just a fool
Some say you'll never care
Maybe it's the hurt I need to know
To know that you'll be there
Maybe it's the hurt I need to know
To know that you'll be there

Chorus

Like days they come and go
The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old circle once again
Waiting for my love to kiss away my broken heart
Like days they come and go
The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old circle once again
Waiting for my love to kiss away my broken heart
Like days they come and go
The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old circle once again

Beauty in the pain
The pain I can't let go
I can't let go
Strung out on emotions
Salvation never know
Suicide emotion
Drowning out these tears
Fighting for affection
For way to many years
If this is how it ends
Then this is what shall be
A broken me

Chorus

Like days they come and go
The night they stay the same
I'm walking in the same old circle once again
Waiting for my love to kiss away my broken heart
Like days they come and go
The night they stay the same

I'm walking in the same old circle once again
Waiting for my love to kiss away my broken heart

Like days they come and go - Like days they come and go
The night they never change - The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old shadows once again- once again- once again- once again

Like days they come and go
The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old circle once again- once again- once again- once again

Like days they come and go - Like days they come and go
The night they never change - The night they never change
I'm walking in the same old shadows once again- once again
